University of Waterloo

GNCTR 2005

Great Northern Concrete Toboggan Race

The GNCTR began in 1974, as a joint venture between the American Concrete Institute and the University of Alberta.

Since its initiation, the GNCTR has challenged its participants to use creativity, skill, and innovation in the design and construction of a concrete toboggan.

In the first week of February 2005, the University of Calgary will host the 31st annual Great Northern Concrete Toboggan Race.

Objectives

Concrete toboggans are evaluated on various technical and non-technical aspects including concrete mix design, braking system design, technical exposition, and aesthetics. To win this competition, the sled must be fast, innovative, and original.

The Team

The Waterloo team is traditionally made up of Civil Engineering students. This year's team has more than 20 members.

Corporate Sponsorship

Many individuals, businesses and organizations have enjoyed a long and mutually beneficial relationship with the University of Waterloo.

Sponsorship of the University of Waterloo GNCTR 2005 team will give your company extensive visibility within the Campus community.

Our team is looking for support in any form; financial, material, or service related. Our current budget is $25,000 to make the trip to Calgary possible.

Funds are required for:

- ✓ Material for testing
- ✓ Creation of prototype
- ✓ Final toboggan construction
- ✓ Promotional material including a display to promote our toboggan at the Technical Exhibition
- ✓ Competition Entry Fee
- ✓ Transportation

Monetary values will be assigned to all materials and services donated.
